LAW REPORT.

HIGH COURT OF AUSTRALIA.

Before the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Barton, Mr. Justice Isaacs, and Mr. Justice Higgins.)

SALE OF AN HOTEL.

DISTRICT COURT VERDICT HOLD GOOD.

MacNamea v. Martin.

Mr. Gorrie, Mr. S. and Dr. Bremesden, instructed by Mr. H. H. Minto, of Coffs Harbour (by his agents, Messrs. Colquhoun and Bassett), appeared for the appellant. Mr. McDonald, Mr. F. J. Russell, instructed by their agent, Mr. A. J. McDonald, appeared for the respondent.

Judgment was given in the matter of the sale of the hotel, the judgment of the Court (comprising the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Sly, respecting the Grafton District Court case of MacNamea v. Martin).

The action, which was tried at Grafton District Court on November 13 and 14 last year, before Acting District Court Judge Thomas C. Smith, resulted in a verdict for Plaintiff, Joseph MacNamea, stock and station agent, of Coffs Harbour, against Thomas Martin to recover the sum of £25 being remuneration on account of services rendered to Plaintiff by the Foreign Agency Company.

Plaintiff claimed that there was only one agency of Stevens and Nolle's, for £4760.

Plaintiff claimed that he was for one year engaged with Stevens and Nolle's, under a dissolution agreement, and that for any other business done Stevens and Nolle's acted as purchasers on behalf of the plaintiff.

Plaintiff claimed that he was going to sell for sale, and agreed that he would pay him £50 if he effected a sale for the amount mentioned, and that a deposit of a definite sum from a Mrs. Daniels, of Grafton, was paid to the defendant.

The defendant declined to accept her as a purchaser. The defense was that the plaintiff did not fulfil his part of the dissolution agreement, and that he knew that Mrs. Daniels would not be an acceptable purchaser.

The Jury returned a verdict for Plaintiff, and the defendant appealed to the Full Court.

The Full Court set aside this verdict, and ordered that the defendant should make up the amount claimed.

The Chief Justice, in delivering the judgment, said that he could not agree with the Full Court that the subsequent agreement with Mrs. Daniels was sufficient to constitute a misrepresentation.

The question involved was whether the appellant, a married woman, being the holder

of her sole and separate use of an arrival, had the right to enter into a contract with a third party.

The evidence showed that she had the right to do so, and if you believe that the plaintiff entitled to a a verdict for the amount claimed."

The Chief Justice, in delivering the judgment, said that he could not agree with the Full Court that the subsequent agreement with Mrs. Daniels was sufficient to constitute a misrepresentation.

The question involved was whether the appellant, a married woman, being the holder

of her sole and separate use of an arrival, had the right to enter into a contract with a third party.

The evidence showed that she had the right to do so, and if you believe that the plaintiff entitled to a

a verdict for the amount claimed."

The Chief Justice, in delivering the judgment, said that he could not agree with the Full Court that the subsequent agreement with Mrs. Daniels was sufficient to constitute a misrepresentation.

HOLIDAY FICTION.

Many literary cooks are like the domestic treasure who makes only one soup. Of such is H. G. Wells, whose "War in the Air" (Bell) comes from the well-known prophetic man of the department. "This is progress," said Mr. Tennyson, "and stands well." "I hope so," You'd hardly think Mr. Wells could keep on; but he does. Bert Smallways was the progressive son. Bert shocked his father before he was 12, went to shorthand classes at the Bus Hill Institute when he was 15, and to the bar on a motor bicycle when he was 20. Meanwhile, the channel was bridged with iron, the canals were built, the railways were, and the flying boats began to fly. Presently Bert's bicycle gets burnt, and the newspapers foam at the headlines. If the connection between these events is not obvious, neither is life itself. It is clear that before long Bert was carried away in bat-jon, out of which the only successful invention of aerophiles had fallen. The comedy begins with the arrival of Wolf-Polit, drafted into the German airship Park. The sheet was just off to give America "what for." However, the Americans had an aged scientist who knew how to kill airships crewed by lightning. But really if you want to know what happened on Goat Island you must go to Mr. Wells.

It began in San Francisco, where many went to corner traps in the Solar Room. The Solomon's had not took much like "The Alter Stair," but that was G. H. Lane's easier fashion than Hodder and Stoughton. Red MacKenzie took the job. The steaming heat was enough to melt the marrow in a man's bones, and beyond the ink-black shade now cast by the mangroves the shell-beach extended in the whitened distance.

The work of the session was brought to a close last evening. When the sitting which was suspended at 2 a.m. yesterday was resumed at half-past 10 o'clock the House went into committee to consider the Legislative Assembly's amendment to the Sydney Corporation (Amendment) Bill.

SYDNEY CORPORATION BILL.

The PREMIER said the Council had made a number of amendments to the bill, but was not able to bring up all its amendments on the 4th of the bill left to the Assembly. It provided for a general rate of not less than 1d. per pound on the unimproved capital value of buildings.

Remodelling the Parliamentary buildings.

The idea, the Minister explained, was to practically rebuild Parliament House, though it would be difficult to get the money.

Completion of the Fisher Library, Sydney University.

SERVANTS' REGISTRY BILL.

Mr. CHILDE said the bill was a sensible one of the Royal Commission. He said the object of the measure was to protect people from being taken advantage of.

The bill was introduced by Mr. Childe, and the opposition amendment was agreed to.

The motion for the second reading was defeated by 35 votes to 26.

LAWMONT CHURCH LANDS BILL.

Mr. HINDEMARSH moved the second reading of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Limerick Church Lands Bill. He said it had three main objects: to increase the value of the title of the land on which the Cathedral now stood, the appointment of trustees, and the vesting in the trustees of power to lease, mortgage, and let.

The second reading was agreed to, and the bill was passed through its remaining stages.

HOMING PIGEONS PROTECTION BILL.

The Homing Pigeons Protection Bill was further considered in committee. Clause 2, as far as it concerned the protection of homing pigeons, was agreed to.

On clause 4, "Rate on unimproved capital value," the Premier moved to disagree with the Government's amendment, which inserted the word "not more than threepence in the pound" with the object of inserting a proviso that the total amount leviable under the bill was to be limited to £100,000.

On clause 5, "Rate on improved capital value," the bill was agreed to.

The motion for the second reading was agreed to by 35 votes to 26.

SYDNEY BETHEL UNION EXTENSION BILL.

Mr. LEVY moved the second reading of the Sydney Bethel Union Extension Bill. He said owing to the death of the original trustees the present trustees had a defective title to the land given to the Sydney Bethel Union. Other clauses empowered the trustees to erect necessary buildings for church purposes.

The bill was agreed to.

The motion for the second reading was agreed to by 35 votes to 26.

ADJOURNMENT.

House adjourned at 7.30 p.m.

the following proposed lines were referred to the Public Works Committee:

Mosse to Mungindi, at an estimated cost of £285,589.

Caramba to Dorrigo. The estimated cost for the ordinary type of railway on the standard gauge was £1,000,000, and for the narrow £667,168 for the length of 37 miles. Another survey had been made for the standard gauge with sharp curves for the Shute type of engine, and a cost of £230,000. It was decided to adopt the latter.

Duplicating the Great Western railway line between Emu Plains and Blandford.

Peak Hill to Parkes. Though it was estimated the line would be worked at a loss of about £300,000 a year, it would be open to a large extent of good agricultural land.

Boga to Eden. He said the line would eventually form part of the South Coast line, and would give immediate relief to a large and important district.

GENERAL WORKS PROPOSALS.

Bonville to Jervis Bay (tramway). The Minister said that it had been decided to extend the South Coast railway practically the whole of the line from Bonville to the coast.

The extension of the northern breakwater at Newcastle Harbour entrance. He said the engineers of the department strongly advised against carrying out the complete a work already commenced.

Scheme of wharfage at Carrington, in the port of Newcastle. The object of the work, the Minister said, was to provide increased facilities for the handling of coal, and to relieve the congestion which had occurred there. The estimated cost of the scheme was £546,000.

Newbridge system in the municipalities of Gosford, Woy Woy, and Erina.

Remodelling the Parliamentary buildings.

The idea, the Minister explained, was to practically rebuild Parliament House, though it would be difficult to get the money.

Completion of the Fisher Library, Sydney University.

Waverley to Bronte tramway. The line would give access to a particularly popular resort, said the Minister, and the cost was estimated at £26,275.

GOVERNMENT AND UNIVERSITY.

"NOT LIBERAL ENOUGH."

"About 120 sat down to the annual dinner of the Sydney University Evening Students' Association at Sargent's Rooms last night. The president (Mr. J. J. Mills, B.A.) had with him the heads of the table several members of the teaching staff."

"After the usual loyal toast Mr. H. Chandler, M.L.A., in proposing 'Parliament,' referred to the heads of the table, making various references. (Loud applause). He pleaded for professional courses to be thrown open to even- ing men. (Applause)."

"He wrote to a newspaper—and that was the first letter he wrote to a newspaper—that was sent when he was 16—was in favour of opening the University to the youth of the community who were compelled to work for their subsistence during the day. More than twenty years after it was his privilege to effect this reform. He referred to the assistance he had received from the heads of the table. (Applause). He was ashamed now to hear that the grant of £2000 a year which he established twenty-five years ago toward evening classes had not been used for its original purpose. He said he should have every advantage the day University possessed. Personally he had determined, now his reputation in public life was established, to take this into account in a practical way. (Loud applause). There was no room in the world for him to have a distinction in the field of intellectual hard work an Australia. If only young Australians would throw themselves into the development of his ideas, he said, as he had a good catch at cricket or a goal at football what a magnificent result would follow! He urged his hearers to apply their knowledge, otherwise they would become museums, not men."

Mr. Bruce Smith, M.P., in proposing "The University," said that the University of the Commonwealth as a factor of a Scottish University had it down that a University was not a place in which a man could receive a professional training, but rather a place in which he might obtain the benefit of the education. They had all had the advantages, like himself, before they entered a university course, of an education in the home country, and in this they were able to think in the true perspective. Their president had informed him that 50 per cent. of their number were engaged in professional practice, 25 per cent. to the public service, 25 per cent. to commercial life. It was a great pleasure to find so many devoting their lives to the cause. In this he saw the greatest pleasure in life was the retrospect of having done one's duty. (Applause).

In replying Professor Macmillan referred to the fact that the professors, as well as the professors of Maths, Holmes and Schefeld, Referring to charges made against the University, he said it was conservative—it should be called reactionary—but it was a fact that could not be described as "reactionary." The people of New South Wales were altogether under the illusion that they thought the University was liberal. In reality, the University had all had the advantages, like himself, before they entered a university course, of an education in the home country, and in this they were able to think in the true perspective. The Evening Students' Association was proposed by Mr. G. Howson (the president of the Students' Association), with a reply by the president.

UNIVERSITY SCOUTS.

CAMP IN HEAT AND RAIN.

The Sydney University Scouts have been putting in some strenuous work in their camp at National Park. The weather has not been very favourable, but the scouts have been hardy. The Scouts were nearly naked. On Thursday night, while bivouacked in the bush, A Company was drenched to the skin. The tents had been torn down by the wind. Wednesday, but owing to examinations and other educational engagements they did not muster anything like full strength. Since then, however, they have been on the arrival of belated volunteers, and expect to muster about 100 all told. Captain H. K. Denman is commanding officer, Captain N. K. Denman, Adjutant, and Captain M. W. Whitton, Adjutant. It was originally the intention of the commanding officer to have a route march over the mountains, but the weather had gone over the route during November, and found that the absence of sufficient water would preclude a satisfactory march. The route therefore, abandoned in favour of the present camp.

The tents are pitched adjacent to the National Park railway station. A hundred yards to the eastward are plenty of trees, which seem to exist for the purpose of providing shelter from the sun. The tents are simple, but the morning till far into the night it is a coincidence that each time the Scouts have been encamped at National Park they have been won over by the weather. The seventh year, has been no exception. A number of Scouts have been encamped on a rocky hill beyond Burleigh, and the clouds pressed the coming storm. Just after nightfall, it burst with all its fury. The first flash of lightning came. Then the Scouts on the hill got out their waterproofs, and made use they were to do. All were surprised, penetrating through great clouds. Vivid flashes of lightning were followed by terrific peals of thunder, which echoed and re-echoed.

With morning came the invader. B Company had left camp early. It had first to wade through a mile of water, and the Scouts were quick to the location of a Company was no child's play. The ground was rugged and mountainous. The defenders had made themselves elsewhere. The Scouts from the attacking force stumped right on the lines without knowing it. There was a cry of "Hands up," and they were put out of the way.

Later on, the B Company having located the enemy, advanced to the attack. They scolded themselves of ever robbing a Scout, but finally captured the whole of the company held by a Company. The battle of musketry continued as the attacking force moved forward. The defenders had made themselves elsewhere. The Scouts from the attacking force stumped right on the lines without knowing it. There was a cry of "Hands up," and they were put out of the way.

The battle of musketry continued as the attacking force moved forward. The defenders had made themselves elsewhere. The Scouts from the attacking force stumped right on the lines without knowing it. There was a cry of "Hands up," and they were put out of the way.

Later on, the B Company having located the enemy, advanced to the attack. They scolded themselves of ever robbing a Scout, but finally captured the whole of the company held by a Company. RUNAWAYS AND CASTAWAYS.

EDITED BY R. V. LUCAS.

With Illustrations and Cover Design by F. D. REDFORD.

The Stories in this Volume deal with Children, and Animals that have either run away or been lost; the authors represented include Dickens, a "bright story" by whom is republished by special permission; Mr. Kingsley, Mr. Astley, George Eliot, Mrs. Fawcett, Mrs. Gaskell, Mrs. Howells, Mrs. Wardle, Mrs. Gaskell, and others. Any story that is no longer "easy"; but the reader, whatever his or her taste, will find in this book plenty of material for running away in imagination. Mr. Redford's illustrations are in his best style.

ROBERT A. DALLEN,
9th December, 1908.

I WISH to THANK my numerous Customers for their very long and esteemed patronage and support, and to inform them that I have decided to close my business in the whole of the Tramway Estate and present my stock to a NEW and UP-TO-DATE FRESH FOOD FIRM. I am now engaged in fitting up my premises with electric machinery and auxiliary appliances possible to install to manufacture a pure Public Supply of fresh meat, fish, and vegetables. The Public generally should be invited to inspect themselves at 125, 126, 128, 130, and 132 ABERCHOMBEY-STREET, SYDNEY.

P.S.—During over 20 years of business I have never had any trouble with public or with employees without resolution at all times to make good to the same. Thanking you. Yours faithfully,

ALFRED CLIFFTON.
